PhD in Pedagogy, Associate Professor, Senior Fellow of Higher Education Academy (SFHEA, Advance HE, UK) Khikmatullo Urazbaev is a distinguished scholar, academic leader, and higher education practitioner with extensive experience in teaching, learning, curriculum development, and quality assurance in higher education. He holds a PhD in Pedagogy from the Uzbekistan State World Languages University (2021), an MA in TESOL from Sheffield Hallam University (UK) (2016), and a Master's degree in Translation Theory and Practice from the Uzbekistan State World Languages University (2007).

His interdisciplinary research and professional expertise encompass higher education policy and development, curriculum internationalisation, quality assurance and enhancement, English language teacher education, educational technology, student learning experience, artificial intelligence in education, and academic staff development. He currently serves as Director of the Centre for Academic Development and Associate Dean of Teaching and Learning at Westminster International University in Tashkent (WIUT), where he leads institutional initiatives in academic quality, curriculum innovation, and professional development.

Dr. Urazbaev is the author of a scholarly book on student feedback in higher education quality assurance and enhancement, editor of international conference proceedings, and author of numerous publications in the fields of higher education, language education, educational technology, and applied linguistics. His research projects include curriculum internationalisation, quality assurance in transnational higher education, English language teacher education, and language policy in Uzbekistan.

He has designed and delivered numerous professional development programmes for university academics, school teachers, and healthcare professionals and has contributed to the development of national and institutional policies on quality assurance, academic development, and artificial intelligence in education. He serves as a National Expert for the National Quality Assurance Agency in Education under the Administration of the President of the Republic of Uzbekistan and actively contributes to national higher education reform initiatives.

Research Projects and Initiatives

He has contributed to several strategic initiatives, including the British Council-commissioned project on quality assurance mapping in the context of transnational education growth in Uzbekistan and the WIUT–University of Westminster collaborative research project on the history of English language teacher education in Uzbekistan.
